

SKILLS FOR LEARNING

OUR SUPPORT GUIDELINES

1. You are very welcome to share samples of your writing to exemplify. However, no proofreading will be offered, nor will your essay / assignment be read and revised before submission.
2. Our advice is not subject-specific. Consultations cannot provide advice on matters relating to content (i.e that of your discipline).
3. Proof-reading is not part of our service. If you would like to improve your proof reading skills, our Guide to Proof-reading is available, and proof reading techniques are covered as part of the Introduction to Academic Writing workshop. You can also watch our short video tutorial on Reviewing, Proofreading and Editing.
4. Although the Skills for Learning programme is here to help you with your academic skills development, we can't do your coursework for you. If you visit with questions related to coursework, we are happy to talk about the topics generally, but we cannot help answer specific assessed questions.

To request this document in an alternative format please contact skills@wlv.ac.uk